

I can't believe that a debt collection agency may believe to have the right to call debtors and to use abusive language and think they might get away from it! It's not fair for us consumers to have our cell phone numbers revealed to third parties to debt collectors, and which is a cell phone service that we pay for and we expect that our cell phone numbers to be kept private! Why should I use my minutes from my cell phone service to answer to a debt collector and they also believe have the right to block their numbers too (caller id)? So I would I know if the call is from a debt collector or a stalker? Keep our cell phones numbers private!!!!!!
